Howdy Students!

Hope your week went well. Here are a few items that might be of interest to you!!

- Last day to drop a class without using a Q-drop is Wednesday, February 4, 2015. If you need to drop a class from your current spring schedule, you need to contact an advisor by NOON on Wednesday, February 4, 2015. After that time you will need to use a Q-drop.

- Monday, February 2, 2015 is the Business Career Fair. For information, please visit - http://bsc.tamu.edu/.

- Tuesday, February 3, 2015 is the Ag Career Expo (ACE Day). For information, please visit - http://aglifesciences.tamu.edu/students/aceday/.

- Wednesday, February 4, 2015 is the Retailing Career Fair. For information, please visit - http://crs.mays.tamu.edu/events/retailing-career-fair/.

- The Master’s of Land and Property Development (MLPD) program housed within the Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning (LAUP) Department at Texas A&M and the student organization associated with this program is the Texas A&M Real Estate Development Association (REDA).

The MLPD program is a three-semester long entrepreneurship-oriented program of study which combines business and finance with physical planning, design and construction. It is one of only a handful of Land and Real Estate Development programs in the United States, and it attracts students from practically every academic discipline.

REDA is a student organization that coordinates closely with the MLPD program to help students gain access to educational opportunities outside the classroom (i.e. industry leaders, field trips, networking/social events, internships, etc.). It consists mainly of MLPD students, but it is open to all undergraduate and graduate students at Texas A&M.

The MLPD program is currently accepting applications for Fall 2015. If you are interested in this program or organization, please visit the MLPD and REDA websites which can be found at http://laup.arch.tamu.edu/academics/graduate/mlpd/ and http://reda.tamu.edu/.

Interested in studying abroad this summer? We have another trip planned to Ghana. Please see the attached flyer for further details.

Enjoy the Super Bowl!!
