

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS
TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY
AGRIBUSINESS ENTREPRENEURSHIP MINOR

A minor is recognized in the marketplace as an indicator of your desire to achieve more than the minimum required for your degree.

Do you want to own your own business and be your own boss?

Do you intend to rejoin a family business after graduation?

Would you like to pursue employment with a bank or financial institution that funds start-up and existing businesses?

Perhaps you just want to have a working knowledge of business development practices and strategies to achieve success working for an entrepreneur in either a rural or metropolitan setting.

If any of these pursuits interest you, then the Agribusiness Entrepreneurship minor could help you achieve your goals!

Students working toward this minor will be able to select a business to develop or evaluate an enterprise from a consultant's perspective. Business ventures may be selected from various rural and metropolitan enterprises. Enterprises evaluated by previous students include traditional agriculture, such as cow/calf operations, as well as corn, cotton, and rice farming. Other enterprises students have analyzed in the minor include exotic animal hunts, clothing/resale stores/boutiques, customized gifts, car washes, bakeries or catering, touring bands, special event planners, financial planning specialists, florists, custom home builders, real estate investors, etc.
For other examples, refer to the program's webpage, scrolling down to "Student Business Ventures."

The only limit is your imagination!

NOTE: Enterprises must be mutually agreed upon between the instructor & student.

Please contact your advisor to see how these courses could possibly fit into your degree plan. For example, Ag Economics students could use the AGECE courses as "Directed AGECE Electives" or "General Electives," or possibly other substitutions per advisor approval.

Questions regarding the minor should be directed to Dr. Ed Rister, by phone 979-255-5211, or by email at e-rister@tamu.edu. When calling, please leave a message, speak clearly, leave your name, cell phone number, and a message with questions you have regarding the Agribusiness Entrepreneurship Minor. When emailing Dr. Rister, please put Agribusiness Entrepreneurship Minor in the Subject Line, and ensure you include your full name and cell phone number in the body of your email.

FYI: When you earn a minor, it is indicated only on your official Texas A&M University transcript. It is not indicated on your diploma.
